this provocative critically important memoir of working class boyhood in rural indiana offers a searing cultural analysis of toxic masculinity in american culture npr as progressivism changes american society and globalism shifts labor away from traditional manufacturing the roles that have been prescribed to men since the industrial revolution have been rendered obsolete donald trump's campaign successfully leveraged male resentment and entitlement and now with trump as president and the rise of the metoo movement it's clear that our current definitions of masculinity are outdated and even dangerous deeply personal and thoroughly researched the author of the people are going to rise like the waters upon your shore has turned his keen eye to our current crisis of masculinity using his upbringing in rural indiana to examine the personal and societal dangers of the patriarchy the man they wanted me to be examines how we teach boys what's expected of men in america and the long term effects of that socialization which include depression shorter lives misogyny and suicide sexton turns his keen eye to the establishment of the racist patriarchal structure which has favored white men and investigates the personal and societal dangers of such outdated definitions of manhood exposes the true cost of toxic masculinity and takes aim at the patriarchal structures in american society that continue to uphold an outdated ideal of manhood book riot

i have fought the good fight i have finished the race i have kept the faith in the biblical letter of 2 timothy the apostle paul reflected on his passing life it was but a vapor he was a pilgrim passing through this life and into the next moments til midnight creatively peels back the curtain of paul's final hours author brent crowe imaginatively retells the last twelve hours of paul's life from the perspective of the apostle himself along the way readers will be encouraged to live with purpose to redeem the time and to embrace the awesome reality that they too are on a sacred journey with no more letters to write no more churches to plant no more sermons to preach and no more missionary journeys to embark upon paul awaited his death sentence what were his final reflections on life how did he view the race he had run how should you view the race set before you
